

I do not think Sinclair Broadcasting should have decide to air "Stolen Honor". This close to the election, to air such a clearly partisan anti-Kerry documentary, really shows the great dangers of the kind of media consolidation you have allowed.

The public airwaves are being used by Sinclair free of charge, and tje they have an obligation by law to serve us, the public, and our best interest. Now it seems like only a few big companies control everything, and no one cares about fairness, only about money.

Sinclair is a perfect and screaming example of why this country needs stronger media ownership rules. I don't know what it will take to make licensing more accountable to the public but it needs to happen somehow. This is not good for our country.

Thank you.
